Here is a collection of objects that address the multiple implications of being a “thing” Artworks challenge the parameters of their physical forms - they are made of unexpected materials or extend into unreliable dimensions. Some works don’t act like art at all, they are useful items that malfunction in compelling ways, artist-made merchandise, reconfigured domestic objects, absurdist and dystopian anomalies. The spaces between mediums, and between the categories object and art are home to a particular intermingling of forms, with things working on many levels simultaneously. The exhibition provides an environment that encourages and frames these unusual ontological processes.

The exhibition opens with a reception on April 22nd from 7-10pm
With Bruce Lamont Solo Vocal Performance and age-appropriate drinks by Land and Sea Dept
